

You must not limit someone's ability. XM is a new technology, an improvement on an existing idea. This is what America was built on. Americans take current ideas and product and make them better, more efficient, cheaper. I am a school teacher and if one of my students is gifted academically I don't tell them to stop being creative and to stop learning so fast. I give them the range to explore their ability to build it even stronger and make themselves even better. XM radio is that smart child. You can not tell them to stop innovating. It is just wrong, plain and simple. Wrong!
